Easi-Grip® Arm Support Cuff

£5.95 | PGT-AS

This simple Arm Support Cuff can make a world of difference to your gardening experience. The aluminium rod plugs into the back of any Easi-Grip® garden tool and allows the gardener to use the strength of the forearm for all gardening activity, reducing stress on hand and wrist. Customers are always amazed at what a difference this can make and can bring accessibility to gardening to a wider group.

When used with our Add-On Handles this can make some two-handed activities possible using just one hand!

The arm support cuff slots into the end of the handle and as well as giving support, it stops the tool falling to the ground if you lose your grip.

FEATURE	BENEFITS
Plastic molded cuff	Can be fitted to any Easi-Grip® garden tool to allow the strength of the forearm to be used. Takes weight away from the wrist to make working even easier for those with very weak hands and wrists
Soft-feel lining	Gives greater comfort and prevents chafing on the arm
Plug in rod	Means the cuff is interchangeable between tools. Only one needs to be purchased per user
Attaches securely to garden tool	Tool will remain with gardener even if grip is released. Ideal for gardeners with Dementia as a physical reminder of the task at hand

£17.95 | PGT-AH (pack of two)

You can have all the benefits of our Easi-Grip® handles without replacing all your garden tools. By simply attaching our Add-On Handles to your favourite hand tools you can make them more comfortable to use. You can use our arm support cuffs with Add-On Handles too.

By using two Add-On Handles set at right angles to each other on a rake or hoe you can carry out the task without twisting and bending, saving your back as well as your hands!

But please don't think Add-On Handles are only for use in the garden, they have been used on golf trolleys, oars and many other items around the house!

Raking and sweeping can be easier if you use an add-on Easi-Grip handle and an arm support cuff – particularly if you use one hand, have a weak grip or weak wrist.
